His latest adventure was riding on the lowest step of a sleeping car on a fast train going at the rate of forty miles an hour, he being unable to either get off the train or into the car.

Bishop Esher had been going the rounds of the churches in his diocese, his last stop being Reddick, Ill., a small town on the St. Louis division of the Wabash Railroad. He preached to a large congregation there, and altough being asked to remain all night, refused to do so, as he was anxious to get home He lives at No. 745 Jackson Boulevard hicago.

dick at four o'clock in the morning and stopped at a water tank for a few moments. So the bishop, accom-panied by Rev. Jacob Schwartz, pastor of the Reddick church, drove o the tank and waited. When the train came along the venerable bish p mounted the steps of the last sleeper, just as the cars began to move, but beng encumbered by a heavy satchel he could not knock on the vestibule win-and the bishop, his flesh cut by the keen sleet, driven by a strong wind, and throughly drenched by a heavy rain, clung to the railing of the plat-form for dear life. Station after station flew by and the train showed no disposition to stop, although the aged prehe limited, and would not pause until t reached Englewood, forty miles from

Almost dead from cold the bishop oung on, although his senses were near y gone, and several times he thought be would surely lose his grip, but he didn't; and just as the train was drawing up to the station in Englewood the colored porter happened to look out. Stimulants soon restored the bishop, HERBERT BRYANT, and when the train rolled into the Dearborn station he had almost recovered from his exciting experience.

> chief cause of crushing armaments and international enmities in Europe, is the subject of an article in the Revue des Revues from the pen of Dr. Haas, re-cently member for Metz in the German Reichstag. Dr. Haas resigned some time ago, and is now living at Nancy. The other day the Munchene Nachrrich ten sent a special correspondent to Alsace-Lorraine in order to ascertain hings, but after questioning persons of all classes. Germans as well as natives, the conviction forced itself upon him that Germany had no hold at all over the sympathies of the people. They still regarded their country as part and parcel of France torn from the mother country, and they would welcome the French to-morrow as enthusiastically as twenty-five years ago. The correspondent was struck with a fact I have been able myself to notice in Alsace-Lorraine. There are no intermarriages between the native and the German population, not even among persons of the same religion.

Dr. Haas passes in review the several policies of gentleness and severity tried n the country since the annexation. Among the acts of German Governer, Herr von Muller, was to hang the press, to suppress speech and to sus-pend municipalities and all elected bodies. Civil servants refused en masse to take the oath of allegiance, and it was impossible to carry out the threat of dismissing non-complainants. The government, says Dr. Haas, is too clever to use coercion alone. It tries persuasion, and has succeeded in a few cases. The few Alsacians who have gone over to Germany are, however, boycotted as traitors by their country-men. Dr. Haas concludes that, take any class of the population, one cannot but recognize that the efforts to Germanize the country have failed utterly. The election of Herr Bebel at Stras burg was received with cries of "Vive
